AIEA-MOANALUA-RADFORD INDUCTION & MENTORING TEAM
Christine Braga, left, and Sue Bevacqua

Sue Bevacqua and Christine Braga provide differentiated, personalized support for the 55 beginning teachers at 22 schools under their charge. Throughout the year, they create an environment of trust and camaraderie by coordinating free Professional Development for-credit courses for their beginning teachers, sponsoring Professional Learning Community meetings for mentors and mentees to share successful classroom strategies and network, and monitoring funded and non-funded activities for our schools and teachers. They support teacher achievement by working with principals, personnel officers, complex area business managers and support staff to monitor the progress of beginning teachers and raise the percentage of highly qualified teachers. As a result, the Complex Area achieves and maintains one of the highest percentages of highly qualified teachers at 94 percent.

KAPOLEI ELEMENTARY SCHOOL OFFICE TEAM
From left: Denise Lee, Karie Gomban, Wanda Goo, Alyson Mauel, Muriel Takano, Leslie Veaizie

The Kapolei Elementary School office is the heart of the school. With a student comes first philosophy, they have adopted an effective, flexible, and proactive approach to their duties that insure smooth, continuous operations of the front office. With safety in mind, they can be seen opening car doors in the morning and accompanying highly allergic students on field trips. They participate in school dress-up days and volunteering at school activities in the spirit of raising school pride and morale. They exemplify the characteristics of an outstanding team by their welcoming and caring attitude to all who walk through the doors of Kapolei Elementary. No matter what they are asked to do, they always maintain a “can do” attitude for the interest of their students.

OLOMANA SCHOOL’S CSSS TEAM

Olomana’s Comprehensive Student Support System (CSSS) team counselors are tasked with improving student learning by addressing student behavior at the Hawaii Youth Correctional Facility, Detention Home, and Olomana Youth Center. They serve students who come from turbulent families, experienced violence and bereavement, exhibit the highest risk behaviors to academic achievement and social adjustment and various levels of incarceration. Since 2008, the team has focused on improving student outcomes through the Positive Behavior Intervention and Support System (PBIS). In 2013-14, the team consulted, collaborated, and monitored student progress with the assistance of Academic Review Team (ART) and Response to Intervention (RTI) to support students and their teachers. The team has seen significant improvements in key markers of success: higher average daily attendance, increased achievement of reading scores, decreased retention rate of 9th graders, and increased on-time graduation rates.

EMPLOYEE OF THE YEAR

LOWELL KALANI SPENCER
School Custodian, Honowai Elementary

Lowell Kalani Spencer is the head custodian for Honowai Elementary School. He maintains the physical plant and supervises a custodial staff to reflect a feeling of ‘ohana and lōkahi. Under eight years of his supervision, the campus has blossomed with native Hawaiian plants in well-manicured gardens and maintained buildings. He has built capacity with his team with a critical eye and gentle words and created seamless maintenance of Honowai Elementary during temporary staffing shortages. He is a problem solver on campus who assisted with the installation of the indoor aquaponics project and a three-tiered taco ‘lo’i for STEM learning opportunities for students. He is described as a modern version of the legendary menchene of old, who got this done quietly, efficiently, and effectively.

— Nominated by Principal Kent Matsumura

SUSTAINED SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE AWARD

EDGAR YOSHIDA, Audio-Visual Technician, Baldwin High

Edgar Yoshida responds with expertise and a positive demeanor to the needs of the staff and students. His technical knowledge enables him to bridge the gap between the old and new systems and reducing equipment costs to the school. When presented with a problem, his solution is reliably the most cost-efficient and safest. For a number of years, he has been a mentor and instructor to students in the Pre-Forming Arts Pathway to develop skills in stage management. Edgar lives the school motto of P-R-I-D-E: Personal Responsibility In Developing Excellence.

— Nominated by Principal Catherine Kilborn

MANAGER OF THE YEAR

FRANCIS SANTA MONICA
Cafeteria Manager, Ewa Makai Middle

Francis Santa Monica embraces the school’s vision to Empower, Explore, and Excel together by supporting the school community. With his vast experience in the food service industry, he has systematically transformed and modernized the function and efficiency of lunch preparation, service, and management. Teachers describe him as the “heart of the school” because of the compassionate and thoughtful ways he contributes to the school and community.

He trained student volunteers in the art of service and waiting tables for the grand opening of Ewa Makai Middle and provided uniforms for an authentic experience.

Edwa Makai Band Director John Iyoki said he has been a vital partner with the booster club by coordinating food and beverages for special events. From the large school organizations to the individuals, Francis is concerned with everyone’s well-being.

He sets aside lunches for students involved with school activities, prepares special bento and gourmet meals for school events, has initiated a lunch delivery service for teachers involved with lunchtime activities, and has posted illustrations to help ELL students.

The Ewa Makai Middle student body vice president remarked that “Mr. Santa Monica is a role model for us. He works with all to ensure those in need receive food.”

— Nominated by Principal Edward Oshiro and Student Activities Coordinator Vanessa Ching
