

The Sex Abuse Treatment Center's (SATC) Sexual Abuse Prevention Curriculum

The Kapi'olani Medical Center for Women & Children, The Sex Abuse Treatment Center's sexual abuse prevention curriculum is a locally developed K-12 curriculum for sexual abuse prevention, including culturally inclusive tips for educators, characters, and scenarios.

My Body is Special (Grades K-2): Students learn body safety concepts, rules to help protect themselves from unsafe situations and touches, and how to tell a trusted adult if unsafe touching happens to them.

My Body, My Boundaries (Grades 3-5): Students learn how to recognize and respond to unsafe, or sexually abusive behaviors (referred to as unwanted talking, showing, and touching of private parts). They also learn to identify and respect personal boundaries, stay safe from internet predators, trust their intuition, and tell a trusted adult when they feel unsafe.

[respect] (Grades 6-8): Students learn about tools to keep themselves and others safe while promoting respectful relationships. The lessons set clear definitions of sexual violence, bullying, harassment, and methods of prevention. Students also learn how to respect boundaries and how to stay safe online.

[respect] (Grades 9-12): Students learn how to recognize and respond appropriately and safely to sexual violence. They reflect on their behaviors, learn how to respect others' personal boundaries, and how to avoid behaving in disrespectful and sexually abusive ways. Students also learn how to reduce their risk of victimization, how to help peers in unhealthy relationships, and the importance of healthy, respectful relationships.

The general description of the curriculum was adapted from information provided on the publisher's website.
