How do you measure how well a school is doing? In our estimation, it's more than scores on high-stakes tests. Schools should show that they are supporting children along the educational pipeline toward college, career, and community readiness. Are our students attending school? Are they graduating? Are they going to college? And how successfully are schools reducing the achievement gap between high-needs and non-high needs students?

The Strive HI Performance System was designed to account for these factors in student success. Initially created in 2013 by a U.S. Department of Education waiver from certain aspects of the former No Child Left Behind Act, Strive HI has been refocused by the goals and priorities of the 2017-2020 Department of Education and Board of Education Strategic Plan, the governing document for the public education system.

Our Story

Aliamanu Elementary School (AES), home of the Falcons, is located on Salt Lake Boulevard adjacent to Aliamanu Middle School and the Salt Lake-Moanalua Public Library. Two-thirds of our students are military dependents and reside in the surrounding Salt Lake-Aliamanu area.

At AES, students are challenged to be critical thinkers, and independent learners through the implementation of the Common Core State Standards. To increase digital literacy, technology is integrated throughout instruction with the support of one-to-one devices in the classroom. AVID instructional strategies are used to promote college and career readiness.

To meet the needs of the whole child, AES provides learning opportunities in a variety of high interest areas. Students participate in wheel day, which is a structured rotation of Art, PE, Music and Hawaiian Studies enrichment classes. Learning opportunities extend after the school day through participation in the art club, choir, robotics and gardening clubs. Our goal is to provide rich experiences that promote 21st century learning and global citizenship.

Our parent and military volunteers work tirelessly throughout the school year by supporting students in the classroom as well as assisting with fun events and volunteer work days. At AES, it takes a village to raise a child!
